

pCon.planner

The pCon.planner is the ideal tool to take advantage of combining space planning with presenting and selling products. Using 2D and 3D graphical images it can enhance sales presentations and bring products to life. Floor plans can be captured and furniture positioned incredibly quickly. Your interior design ideas become a virtual reality with the pCon.planner.

Floor Planning

Customers like to see their furnishings in place within their own environment - a requirement experienced everyday by the professional sales community. The pCon.planner allows the drawing of walls, windows and doors true to scale, accurately capturing the customer's environment. In addition the floor plan can be instantly transformed into a 3-dimensional representation of the available space giving an immediate visual impression of the customer's surroundings. This is helpful to both the customer and planner.

Article Selection

The product catalogue lists all available pieces of furniture. Articles are clearly arranged and can be easily selected and positioned exactly where they are wanted. The article search function can help to select the correct article even if the exact article is not known, while a user who knows the articles in detail can quickly select it directly from the article number.

Configuration

The configurator contains all permissible variants and options for every article. These are clearly arranged and easy to select enabling the required combinations to be readily defined. As soon as a product variant or option is modified, the related graphical representation, price and textual information are immediately updated. The pCon.planner automatically checks all the intra- and inter-product rules so you can be secure in the knowledge that all parties have an accurate (and deliverable) definition of the required final products.

Graphical Representation

The plan and selected products can be displayed three-dimensionally in real time. The plan can be viewed from any angle to an impressive level of detail - even the specific characteristics of the selected products can be shown. A push of the button enables the creation of pictures in any resolution up to photo realistic quality, which can then be saved in different formats.

Article List

With all its other impressive features, one must not forget one basic but important point - the pCon.planner automatically generates a full article list for each plan without any additional work, delivering significant savings in both time and expense. As well as the final product references, the article list also includes all the relevant textual information and prices - even pictures can be generated and included. This significant component completes the impressive list of features of the pCon.planner.
